Under threat?: Critics fear Finsbury Park will be damaged by festival-goers

Festival gets the go-ahead

HEADLINERS Chase & Status, Calvin Harris and The 1975 are among a string of stars who will be playing at this year's Wireless Festival – after it was given the green light to take place in Finsbury Park.

Haringey Council confirmed on Friday that the three-day music event will go ahead despite a fierce campaign mounted by park groups to ban the festivities. It will take place on July 8, 9 and 10 and, according to the council, bring much-needed revenue to the park.

The Friends of Finsbury Park were trying to get the event banned, claiming that last year's Wireless Festival ruined lawns and left it looking "as dry as the Serengeti".

A statement on the organisation's website states: "Our campaign to stop Wireless Festival is rapidly gaining momentum. We are considering launching a fundraising campaign to bring judicial review proceedings to quash any decision by Haringey Council to allow the festival to take place at Finsbury Park in July."

"We are not against Wireless Festival, but its sheer size and scale is totally inappropriate for Finsbury Park. We are happy to see events staged which don't involve the closure of one third of the park in high summer, are more inclusive of the local community and benefit the park itself."

The friends group also has worries about safety. Last year's event was marred by trouble as crowds of ticketless fans tried to break down fencing to get in.

But a spokeswoman for the council said that this year's event would run as smoothly as possible. "We will be working closely with event organisers Festival Republic and local people to ensure this event takes place smoothly and safely with as little disruption as possible," she said.

£20,000 REWARD TO CATCH KILLER

Shot dead: Abdulkarim Boudiaf

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE are offering a reward of up to £20,000 for information in a fresh bid to catch a murderer who gunned down a teenager.

Seven years to the week after 18-year-old Abdulkarim Boudiaf was shot dead, in Broadwater Road, Tottenham, his family have backed a new effort by detectives to find the killer.

Abdulkarim was shot in the chest shortly before 10pm on Saturday, March 14, 2009, and was pronounced dead at the scene.

His murder remains unsolved and detectives continue to appeal for new information to bring the killer to justice.

Detective Chief Inspector Andy Chalmers of the Met Police's murder squad, said: "I am hoping that someone who previously did not feel they could come forward will now, after seven years, feel able to provide us with the information we need to solve this case."

"On the evening of the murder, Abdulkarim was in the vicinity of The Elmhurst pub, in Lordship Lane, with friends when, just before 10pm, he was confronted by his killer, who shot him twice. Your help could remove a dangerous killer from the community.

"Were you in or around The Elmhurst on the night of the murder? Did you see the shooting and who was responsible? Do you know who killed Abdulkarim?"

The victim's father Nouredine said: "When my son was killed, the whole family was completely destroyed."

"There is a killer running free on the streets. We want your help, the help of the public, to put my son's killer behind bars."

And his brother Abdurabman said: "For the sake of dignity, humanity and justice, please come forward and help my family to move forward toward a normal life."

A reward of up to £20,000 is available to anyone who comes forward with information that leads to the identification, arrest and prosecution of those responsible for the murder.

Anyone with information should call the incident room on 020 8358 0100, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

'Social' supermarket's location is still unclear

By Claire Casey
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

MYSTERY surrounds the location of a new "social supermarket" which is set to open in Enfield and will help the most vulnerable people in the borough.

Residents on low incomes will be able to show their ID and then buy cheaper in-date food that could not be sold by supermarket giants because of incorrect packaging or over-production.

Enfield has been targeted for the new store – with Haringey and Lambeth – as it has the highest number of families affected by the benefit cap in the UK and the sixth largest number of households living in fuel poverty in London.

Not only will the "social supermarket" sell in-date food which would otherwise be sent to landfill, staff will also help with employment, budgeting tips and cookery lessons.

The borough has been awarded a share of £300,000 from Mayor of London Boris Johnson's High Street Fund to set up the new shop, which, the mayor said, will share a library site in Upper Edmonton.

Mr Johnson said: "This funding will help boroughs kickstart 'social supermarket' ventures that can really help local people on tight budgets.

"I want to see more innovative schemes on our high streets that tackle food waste, help communities and offer access to a variety of good standard cheaper food."

Enfield Council refused to confirm the whereabouts of the new supermarket, or the date it would open – but one of the potential sites is understood to be the premises currently occupied by Fore Street Library, pictured above.

A spokesman said: "The council is assessing bids from a range of organisations for its community library initiative including the social supermarket proposal. No decisions have yet been made and bidders will be advised of the outcome of this process by the end of March."

The three new supermarkets follow the success of a pilot shop which opened in Lambeth last year and has so far helped 520 households in south London.

Hatton Garden raid: suspended prison sentence for woman, 36

THE daughter of one of the ringleaders of the Hatton Garden jewel heist was sentenced on Monday for her part in the biggest robbery in UK legal history.

Terri Robinson, 36, of Sterling Road, Enfield, was given a two-year suspended sentence at Woolwich Crown Court after pleading guilty to conspiracy to conceal, convert or transfer criminal property.

Her father, Terry Perkins, 67, of Heene Road, Enfield, had been jailed for seven years earlier this month after pleading guilty to conspiracy to commit burglary.

Breen Walters, 44, of Manor Court, Enfield, was also given a two-year suspended prison sentence on Monday after admitting conspiracy to conceal, convert or transfer criminal property.

Danny Jones, 60, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park, was also jailed for seven years earlier this month for his part in the £14million robbery and Hugh Doyle, 49, of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, received a 21-month prison sentence, suspended for two years, after being found guilty of conspiracy to conceal, convert or transfer criminal property.

Major, Tom!: School governor Tom Yeo launches one of the rockets made by pupils at West Grove primary

Up, up and away

SCRATCH-BUILT rockets made from polystyrene cones used to hold chips were launched skywards by pupils at a Southgate primary school on Monday.

The Year 5 youngsters at West Grove school, in Chase Road, counted down excitedly to lift-off as they joined the space race.

It was all part of special lessons about Earth and Beyond in which school governor and former secondary school science teacher Tom Yeo helped fire the imaginations of youngsters.

He became "Major Tom" as the astronaut lost in space for a creative writing class, assisted the pupils in building a scale model of the solar system in the playground and then helped as the youngsters assembled and decorated the conical chip holders with their name or the logo of the school.

He then attached tiny motors with propellant inside them, which when ignited by an electrical charge went whoosh skywards like a real Saturn rocket.

"The children were thrilled, even though the rockets only climbed to about 90 feet, but they returned to earth just like the re-entry craft from the Apollo missions," said Mr Yeo.

"It was aimed at enthusing the pupils about science and from their reaction it obviously worked."

Geoffrey and sisters recreate family snap – almost 80 years on

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

WATCH the birdie! A dream to recreate a treasured family photo more than 78 years after it was taken was fulfilled for a former headteacher of an Enfield school on Monday.

Geoffrey Mills, 80, and his sisters Margaret, 86, and Jean, 82, recreated the original snap, in which the three of them were featured as small children outside their then home in Conway Gardens, Enfield.

Posing for Advertiser photographer Anne-Marie Sanderson as they did when their father took the sepia-coloured print back in 1938, it brought back cherished memories for them.

Geoffrey, who was head of Latymer School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, from 1983 to 1998, and his sisters, had planned for years to recreate the mirror-image, but had never got around to it until now.

"I was only two at the time, so don't remember it," said Mr Mills, who lives in Wades Hill, Winchmore Hill, "but I have wonderful memories of my childhood spent there."

His father Thomas, a shopkeeper, had bought the three-bedroomed house for £800 in 1936.

Mr Mills's mother died when he was just two months old from tubercular meningitis and he and his sisters, he recalled, had been separated and "farmed out" to aunts and uncles.

His father bought the house to reunite the family and advertised in the Methodist Recorder for a housekeeper, whom he later married and who brought Geoffrey and his sisters up as her own.

"What I remember most is the total freedom we had as children playing at Hilly Fields or spending many happy mornings playing with by beloved dog Bobby over Whitewebbs wood," said Mr Mills.

The family lived there until 1948 when they moved to a flat above their father's grocer's in South Street, Ponders End.

Mr Mills's sisters travelled from Wheathampstead and Bishop's Stortford in Hertfordshire to recreate the pose for the new picture – and they were kindly invited inside their old home to have a look around by its current owners, Jan and Tom Florides.

"They showed us tremendous hospitality," added Mr Mills.

"The old house had changed a bit and the garden no longer had the three elm trees or the sheds where we bred chickens."

"It was a day my sisters and myself won't forget and we now have another treasured keepsake to show out grandchildren."

Now and then: Geoffrey Mills and sisters Margaret and Jean, above, recreate the family photograph which was taken originally in 1938, below

Inclusive spirit: Chickenshed's new artistic director Lou Stein

Lou's ready to take up the 'golden baton'

THE new artistic director of an inclusive theatre company has described his appointment as being handed a "golden baton".

Lou Stein will be taking up the reins at Chickenshed Theatre, in Chase Side, Southgate, from April 4.

Mr Stein founded the Gate Theatre, in Notting Hill, in west London, in 1979 and spent time as the artistic director of the Watford Palace, in Hertfordshire, where he helped establish a repertory theatre.

A spokeswoman from Chickenshed said they were "delighted" at the appointment.

She said: "Throughout his career he has consistently placed inclusion and the community at the heart of his work – there is a tremendous synergy of philosophy and practice.

"His energy, enthusiasm and vision will build on the company's strengths and challenge the organisation to evolve to meet its ambitions for the future."

Mr Stein has said that he has been inspired by the work of the theatre since his own nine-year-old son, who has Down's syndrome, became involved in their work.

He said: "I have been handed the golden baton of one of the most cherished theatre institutions in the UK and I am extremely excited and inspired to work with such a committed and relevant theatre company.

"My own story seems to fit the company's needs precisely at this time. Our paths are crossing at what seems to be a mutually fortuitous and charmed moment."

"For several years now I have seen the company through the eyes of my son, Ethan, who is a member of Chickenshed."

"Through him, I have become more and more interested in the power of truly inclusive theatre practice and applying myself to it."

"I've seen at first hand how infectious the joyful and inclusive spirit of its productions can be."

Spring has sprung: Youngsters were able to greet the new arrivals at Forty Hall Farm over the weekend, above, as well as the cattle, right. They also learned about falconry, opposite page, along with farm machinery and spinning wool

Baa-my army

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

MORE than 3,800 visitors flocked to Forty Hall Farm at the weekend as the lambing season got into full swing.

The new-born lambs are a sign spring is here and the little woolly jumpers didn't disappoint as they gambolled and frolicked in the fields.

"More than 60 lambs were born, but we still have some seven pregnant ewes who have yet to give birth," said farm manager Kate McGeevor.

"One of those stragglers is expecting triplets which we are all excited about," she added.

The two-day event on Saturday and Sunday featured a variety of other rural attractions including sheep shearing, spinning wool, a blacksmith and forge and pottery making.

The farm, managed by neighbouring Capel Manor College, in Bullsmoor Lane, comprises livestock alongside commercial market gardens, orchards and vineyards.

The lambing season signals the start of the farming year and Forty Hall Farm is now open to the public every weekend up until December.

"It is a great way for people to see how organic food is produced and to reconnect with the rural lifestyle," added Kate.

Loss of parks police 'will not drive up crime', insists council

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs have hit back at accusations crime will rocket in the borough with the loss of parks police.

The leader of the Tory group on Enfield Council Terry Neville issued a stark warning last week that the decision to save money by axing the dedicated parks police will leave residents feeling unsafe.

The move to axe parks police comes as the Met and the council drew up a new contract in which PCSOs will no longer have a role in the borough's parks.

Mr Neville said that in Enfield Town Park, where there have been incidents of theft and other criminality in the past, families will be reluctant to spend time there as they will not feel safe.

"In Enfield parks we have had our share of incidents," he said, referring to the fact that in the past week alone police have appealed for information after a two-year-old girl was grabbed by a stranger.

"We need a dedicated parks service to make people feel safe, so that they use all the parks in the borough."

"The problem is this administration have no gumption, they just accept whatever the Met tell them to do

'No gumption': Tory group leader Terry Neville believes Labour rivals on Enfield Council have failed to offer solutions to help deter crime and vandalism in the borough's parks without making suggestions for solutions, like using volunteer police officers to patrol the parks to deter crime and vandalism."

The council's cabinet member for community organisations and culture Yasemin Brett admitted that she was not happy with the police cuts in the borough, which will reduce overall the number of support officers.

But she insists that the council has decided to deploy fully fledged police officers across the whole borough, rather than focusing PCSOs in relatively low crime areas such as parks.

She added: "The proposals we are putting forward, using our resources, will strengthen the provision of police officers in Enfield. We will contract 16 more police officers to help keep our borough safe and secure."

Man charged after attack on pensioner

A MAN has been charged after a partially sighted elderly man was rushed to hospital after being attacked in the street.

Samuel Scott, 40, of no fixed address, was charged with grievous bodily harm, on Saturday.

The 73-year-old victim, who is partially sighted and walks with the aid of a stick, was in Fore Street, Edmonton, when he was attacked on Friday.

Police officers were called to the scene at the junction with Brettenham Road at about 11.15am to reports of a fight.

The elderly man was taken to hospital with an arm injury.

Officers later arrested a 40-year-old man in Brettenham Road on suspicion of assault.

Detective Inspector Chris Rixon, of Enfield CID, said: "This was a cowardly attack on a vulnerable man and I would urge anyone who witnessed the assault, or has information regarding this crime, to contact Enfield CID."

Anyone with information should call 020 8345 3323, or contact Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

MP blasts health chiefs over trial run for improving access to doctors

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD North MP Joan Ryan has hit out at health bosses who awarded a lucrative pilot scheme extending GPs' working hours to a company with which they have close links.

The Enfield Healthcare Alliance was granted "lead provider status" for a six-month pilot that began in October last year, while the other bidders – the Enfield GP Health Network – proposed double the number of appointments for the same cost.

The pilot, which due to finish at the end of this month, is part of the government's national drive to provide access to GPs 12 hours a day, seven days a week.

Dr Mo Abedi, chairman of the NHS Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, which commissioned the pilot, is a shareholder in Enfield Healthcare Alliance.

Ms Ryan, MP for Enfield North, said she was "shocked" about "lack of transparency".

She said: "My two major concerns are that the people of Enfield are not getting the best value for money and that this contract was not fairly awarded.

"The Enfield GP Health Network proposed double the number of appointments for the same cost, yet they were not awarded the contract. Why?

"There is an obvious conflict of interest here. Dr Abedi is the chairman of the CCG and a shareholder in the Enfield Healthcare Alliance."

Ms Ryan added: "I value the involvement of clinicians in the commissioning of services, but it is important that this process is conducted in a fair and transparent way without any conflict of interest between commissioners and providers."

Police hunt for man who grabbed at girl in park

POLICE are appealing for information after a two-year-old girl was grabbed while she was playing in a park.

The incident took place at about 4.30pm on Thursday last week in a playground near Albany Park, in Enfield Wash.

The toddler was with her mother when a man, described as black, in his late 20s and of medium build, grabbed the girl's arm.

The mother challenged him and he ran from the scene.

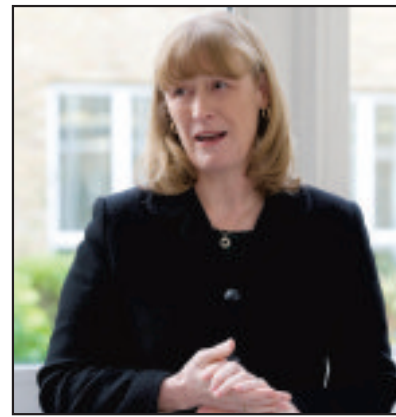

Police said he was wearing a hooded jumper, black trousers and dark shoes and was carrying a black bag.

The child was not hurt, but police said that she and her mother had been left "very shaken by the experience".

Detective Inspector Chris Rixon, of Enfield CID, said: "I would ask anyone who was in the park, or knows who is responsible, to contact police."

Enfield CID can be contacted on 020 8345 3323, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 11.

Concerned: MP Joan Ryan; right, Clinical Commissioning Group chairman Dr Mo Abedi

She said she had written to the CCG voicing her concerns and asking for further transparency and clarification.

Under the pilot, appointments are available to all patients registered with an Enfield GP practice from two sites – Evergreen Primary Care Centre, in Edmonton, and Green Lanes Surgery, in Winchmore Hill.

The service is an extension of Enfield GP practices – providing more appointments both in and outside normal opening hours to give patients improved access to doctors.

The CCG strongly denied any conflict of interest.

A spokesman said: "The award of the contract to deliver this pilot service was overseen by Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group's procurement committee in order to ensure that conflicts of interest were managed appropriately.

"The chair of the CCG's Procurement Committee is the lay vice-chair and lay member of Enfield CCG's governing body.

"The membership of this committee does not include any GPs.

"All members of the procurement committee were unconflicted in the award of this pilot contract," he added.

Range Homes Easter Egg Hunt

With the Easter weekend approaching, our friendly local estate agents Range Homes along with the Green Lanes Business Association, hosted the annual Palmers Green Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday 19th March for all the children to enjoy.

With a fantastic turnout of 180 children and families taking part for the chance of winning an iPad courtesy of Range Homes. With support from local businesses, 30 Easter eggs were strategically placed in shop windows throughout Palmers Green and all participants had from 11am to 3pm to successfully find and log their locations on the entry forms. It was a joyful event, full of fun and laughter as the street filled with children hunting high and low for each and every egg. With the clock ticking closer and closer to 3pm there was an air of urgency as our little hunters rushed to get their forms into the prize draw, luckily they all made it just in the nick of time.

By 3pm the Range Homes office was filled with excited children waiting to hear who the lucky winner was and the local MP David Burrows had the honour of picking the name from the draw. Our iPad winner was the lovely Lucy from Palmers Green, her mother and best friend were there to collect the prize from Chanel Ali, Director of Range Homes and MP David Burrows. 30 runners up all received Easter eggs.

Range Homes would like to thank Costas Georgiou and Haroulla Psarras from the Green Lanes Business Association for their help on the day as well as a special thank you to MP David Burrows for his highly appreciated support.

We are already looking forward to next year. CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL OF OUR WINNERS.

Rivals clash over plans for cycling

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCILLORS have clashed over figures showing the reaction to Cycle Enfield.

Using a Freedom of Information request, Terry Neville, the leader of the Conservative opposition group on Enfield Council, is querying numbers in a question to the full council meeting this evening (Wednesday).

Of 2,707 responses to the consultation on the Enfield Town plans, 65 per cent did not approve of a two-way cycle path option – and 69 per cent did not like an option which featured a central lane for cyclists.

Mr Neville contrasted those figures with a higher level of opposition that Daniel Anderson, the cabinet member for environment, had spoken of in a statement earlier this month.

In a question for Mr Anderson, Mr Neville asked if he could “confirm which set of figures is accurate, if either?”

He also wondered whether the council would ditch the Enfield Town plans, whichever figures were correct, and asked what alternative proposals were being considered.

Mr Anderson, replying to the question, said: “The higher figures used in the press statement relate to the number of responses opposed to each individual option for Enfield Town.”

He said that 40 per cent of people were in favour of one of the schemes and most people recognised the benefits.

He added: “The progression of any of the schemes is not and never has been dependent on there being majority support.

“We will be analysing the numerous responses to the consultation, together with discussion with the Mayor’s Office and Transport for London, to amend our proposals and so produce the best possible scheme for Enfield Town.

“This work is ongoing and with 2,707 responses to consider it will take many more weeks to complete.”

Different points of view: Terry Neville, leader of the Tory group on Enfield Council, above, and Daniel Anderson, the cabinet member for environment

Former workplace: Leonard Skinner was working as a vicar at St Peter’s Church, in Grange Park, when the assaults occurred

Former vicar is jailed over sex assaults

A FORMER vicar has been jailed for repeatedly sexually assaulting a boy in the 1970s.

Leonard Skinner, 79, from Newcastle upon Tyne, was sentenced to eight years in prison at Blackfriars Crown Court on Tuesday last week after pleading guilty at an earlier hearing to two counts of indecent assault on a boy under 16 and two counts of indecent assault on a boy aged under 14.

Skinner had been working as a vicar in St Peter’s Church, in Vera Avenue, Grange Park, when he abused the boy, whom he had been helping to prepare for his confirmation.

A third party reported the abuse to police in October last year.

Detective Constable Jon Ritsema, from the Met’s sexual offences and child abuse squad said: “Skinner used his role in a position of trust, as well as his friendly demeanour, to gain access to his victim.

“I would like to pay tribute to the courage of the victim in speaking out against Skinner. It was his testimony that secured the charges and enabled this case to be brought to court.”

Leftside

HISTORIANS of the future will see the current split in the Conservative Party as more important than the EU referendum itself.

And, no, I'm not talking about the career development plans of London's comical mayor.

It is the working-class Tory voters, not celebrity politicians, who will be making history on June 23.

Millions of them will be voting against their own Tory Prime Minister.

Do you remember the 1975 referendum on the Common Market (as we used to call it)?

The Conservative opposition, under their new leader, Mrs Thatcher, were more or less united.

The governing Labour Party was split.

The left-wing activists regarded the Common Market as a capitalist plot – although out on the campaign trail they mainly waved the Union Jack, not the Red Flag.

A majority of Labour MP's, led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, lined up with the Tories, on the pro-Europe side.

One issue dominates the discussion in this year's referendum – immigration from Eastern Europe.

But here, the working-class Tories may be heading for disappointment, whichever side wins.

The referendum result will have nil effect on immigration statistics.

In or out of the EU, British bosses will insist on their freedom to recruit overseas.

Target tax dodgers rather than disabled people

THE government budget proposals regarding those who are disabled is an attack on some of the most vulnerable in our society.

In Enfield, we have, according to government statistics, more than 13,000 disabled residents and it is a growing figure.

Of course, some of these will not be on full benefits – but a cut from £70-plus to £30, which it will be for some, is a serious reduction. Of course, it is balanced by yet another bonus for the top earners.

The government is missing a point here. Local residents on benefits will spend their money in Enfield, thus boosting an ailing economy while those with the extra boost to their earnings will probably shop elsewhere.

Why not invest more resources into those who are evading tax rather than hit the more needy in our society? It is the 21st century, after all, and I think a bit of more long-term thinking is needed here and this policy is reversed.

Long-term thinking needed: Labour councillor Chris Bond

If Greenland can do it, then why can't we?

IT strikes me that the In campaign has to argue from a negative standpoint, while the Leave a positive.

The In campaign has to argue that we are not strong enough, smart enough or big enough to stand on our own, while the Leave argues the opposite.

A prime reason for their position given by the In campaigners over the referendum is trade. Outside the EU, they say, trade will suffer because we are not big enough to do our own deals.

Greenland, a nation with a population less than half that of Cheltenham, left the EU in 1982 following a referendum in 1979.

Greenland has thrived outside despite having few of the advantages we do, such as ready access to world markets via the Commonwealth.

Greenland has trade deals, via its seat on the World Trade Organisation, something we had to surrender in 1975 under the Treaty of Rome, with several countries around the world, both EU and non-EU, including China, Germany, Denmark, Iceland and Japan.

If tiny Greenland can do it, then why not us, the fifth largest economy on the planet despite being held back by EU rules, regulations and directives?

If Greenland is thriving and non-EU Norway and Switzerland are among the best and most successful nations on earth (UN figures), where will we be with our Commonwealth partners, our membership of many other worldwide organisations and the respect we still have as a "international player" in our own right?

Greenland, Norway and Switzerland have governments which support their countries. Sadly, for the last nearly 50 years, our governments have not believed in the UK, its people and its abilities.

We finally have a chance to change all that on June 23 by following the Greenland example and at last take back pride in our country.

CAN anyone shed some light on what has happened to council staff at the civic centre?

I am concerned that they have all been abducted by aliens. They do not answer their emails or answer their phones even though it is council policy to respond within ten working days.

They send out telephone numbers for residents to contact them on, but you cannot get through on these.

But for the fact that any minute now our council tax bills will be dropping through our letterboxes, I would seriously wonder if anyone still works there.

So, come on Enfield Council, if you believe and adhere to your statement attached to all correspondence sent out by you – "Enfield Council is committed to serving the whole borough fairly, delivering excellent services and building strong communities" – can you respond to my emails?

Cycle scheme will boost the local economy, not damage it

FOUR reasons why Mini Holland will help, not harm, Enfield's economy:

1) There is no evidence anywhere, in the UK or abroad, of cycle lanes being linked to a downturn in the local economy. Studies suggest either no effect on revenue, or a positive effect.

2) The impact assessment of Cycle Enfield on the A105 economy concluded there could be a longer term uplift in town centre spend of up to 10-15 per cent.

3) Studies from around the world show how businesses can prosper when bike lanes are installed, even if parking is reduced. Business owners tend to overestimate how many customers come by car.

4) Studies have shown that the heavier the traffic going through a town centre, the more shops close down.

That may explain Enfield Town's rate of closed businesses.

Seven hundred cars an hour on three lanes of traffic make it an unpleasant place to shop.

Cycle Enfield's plans could turn this problem around.

Let's look at the evidence and embrace Cycle Enfield.

Hospital poised for land sell-off

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CRISIS-HIT hospital is on the verge of selling off some of its land to developers hoping to build a school on the site.

A spokesman from North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, has admitted that the trust which runs the hospital is considering selling a parcel of land at the south-eastern edge of the site to the One Degree Academy, which wants to open a school for children aged four to 18 on the land, just off the North Circular Road. The site is where the current blood-testing laboratories and the North Middlesex University Hospital NHS Trust's headquarters are located.

The spokesman stressed that work is already under way to build new laboratories and is expected to be completed this year.

He told the Advertiser: "We can confirm that we are considering a development on our site that will enable the hospital to invest in much-needed new training and education facilities for our staff, helping us to consolidate our reputation as a great hospital to work and learn at."

The hospital has been subjected to much scrutiny after a series of incidents in which the

A&E department could not cope with the volume of patients, with some, on occasion, being advised to leave the emergency ward if their condition was not life-threatening.

The spokesman said that any change of use of the land would be subject to local authority planning approval. However, while hospital chiefs insist that the deal has not gone through yet, the academy is already recruiting for teachers on its website and a spokeswoman said that a permanent site had been secured for the school on the hospital land.

She said that school bosses were "in the final stages of exchanging contracts on this site and hope to share the exact location very soon".

According to the spokeswoman, the school will be small, with only 90 pupils in each year, and will open its doors to Edmonton primary-aged children in September.

Appeal after street attack

A MAN was beaten by a group of attackers wearing balaclavas and wielding baseball bats and a crowbar in Ponders End on Monday morning.

The assault happened at about 10am in Alma Road. Five suspects aged 19, 21, 22, 24, and 42 were arrested as they were fleeing from the scene in a black Honda Civic Accord car.

They were held in connection with the police investigation and remain in custody.

The 41-year-old victim suffered multiple injuries, but declined hospital treatment.

Officers from Enfield CID have appealed for witnesses and are particularly keen for anyone who videoed or took photos of the incident to get in touch.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Enfield CID via 101 or on 07748 780 330, quoting reference number 5206284/16, or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Hair we go: Emma Thornton had her locks cut this week

Teenager's hair-raising effort helps raise funds for charity

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A KIND-HEARTED teenager who has spent years confined to a wheelchair after being diagnosed with a debilitating childhood disease has had her long hair cut to raise money for those "less fortunate".

Emma Thornton, 14, was diagnosed with Perthes Disease when she was just six years old. The condition affects blood flow to the hip joint and breaks down the bone and, in Emma's case, was particularly severe. On Monday, she had her 18-inch-long blonde locks trimmed for the Little Princess Trust, a charity that provides real-hair wigs, free of charge, to boys and girls who have lost their own hair through cancer treatment and other illnesses.

Her mum Theresa Thornton said from the family home in Chase Road, Southgate: "She was a really active little girl, she ran, rather than walked, from 11 months old.

"She used to do gymnastics and trampoline classes, and never stood still, so when she woke up screaming in pain one day we assumed she had pulled a muscle or hurt herself that way."

After a series of hospital visits, Emma, who is now a student at Ashmole Academy, in Cecil Road, Southgate, was given her damning diagnosis. She underwent five major operations on her hip. She was forced to stop all exercise and needed a wheelchair and crutches after the surgery.

Now, eight years later, she has had her final operation and is mainly free of pain.

Theresa added: "We're so proud of Emma. There have been some terrible times, but she is a really great girl and we have always tried to keep her optimistic.

"She started swimming because she needed to keep active for her own state of mind and then took up music. Now she plays the oboe, violin and piano, all at grade six."

Students land garden award

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LUSH garden of leafy ferns with quiet corners designed to meditate an afternoon away has won a top award.

The Wellbeing Yoga Retreat Garden took silver at the Young Gardener of the Year Awards at the Ideal Home Show, in Olympia, London, last week. The garden was designed by Capel Manor College student Muriel Bates and was built by the college's horticulture apprentices.

The judging panel included TV gardening legend Alan Titchmarsh and Carol Paris, chief executive of the Horticultural Trades Association.

Budding landscape gardener Muriel admitted she was thrilled at having had the opportunity to see her design come to life.

She said: "The hard work was recognised with a silver for Capel and moreover the whole team are absolutely thrilled with the finished garden."

Steve Dowbiggin, the principal of the college, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, said that the award reflected the hard work that went into the garden from all students.

The decking area was made from wood felled and sanded down by students.

"Working together achieves so much more than working on your own and this garden is a celebration of the team work which underpins everything Capel Manor College does," said Mr Dowbiggin.

"It also celebrates what a wonderful industry horticulture is – not only a great and satisfying career, but also bringing such enjoyment and peace to others. Well done the Capel team."

'One £700,000 home is not affordable housing'

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS who have been battling to protect a conservation area are distraught that their objections have been ignored by planning officers.

Richard Berndes, 47, of Essex Road, Enfield Town, is shocked that planning chiefs have recommended that councillors give the go-ahead to build a four-bedroom house on a small patch of garden in Walsingham Road, which backs on to Essex Road.

More than 80 per cent of the plot of land falls within the Enfield Town Conservation Area.

However, a report presented to councillors states that they should give the green light to the new, two-storey house, which will be built on a garden and will overlook gardens in Essex Road.

Mr Berndes told the Advertiser that the Essex Road Residents' Association was shocked after hearing that the development was due to be discussed at a meeting of Enfield Council's planning committee last night (Tuesday).

"We only heard about this latest development last week," he said.

The saga of the development has been dragging on since 2010 when the developers first submitted a planning application to the council.

That initial application was rejected. However, in 2014, the developers submitted a second application and were successful.

Unhappy: Residents Sarah Carrington and Richard Berndes in front of the site of the proposed development in Walsingham Road

Essex Road residents were so incensed by the decision that they brought a judicial review against the local authority.

And in February 2015 the residents were vindicated when a High Court judge upheld every aspect of their grievance, ordered the council to pay all the costs of the claimants' case and quashed the 2014 decision to grant planning permission for the development.

Undeterred, the developers submitted a slightly tweaked application at the end of last year and the council looks set to give the seal of approval to the plans, despite more than 70 letters from residents objecting to the proposals.

Mr Berndes said: "The council seems like it is bending over backwards for this development for some reason. It keeps saying that the borough needs more affordable housing, but how will a single four-bedroom house priced at about £700,000 help with the shortage of affordable housing?"

Outlining the reasoning behind granting approval, the report states: "It is considered that this isolated site itself does not contribute to the significance of the conservation area or to the New Town sub-area because it cannot be experienced from within any part of the conservation area."

"The development is considered to not lead to any harm or to a loss of significance to the identified heritage asset."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Well-versed: Anthony Fisher, of the Enfield Poets society, has installed a new exhibition at the Dugdale Centre, in Enfield Town, with different language versions of his poem, Londinium. The exhibition runs until April 15

Exhibition celebrates borough's rich mixture

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW exhibition celebrating the rich diversity of Enfield is opening at the Dugdale Centre.

Londinium, a poem celebrating language and diversity, written by Anthony Fisher, from Enfield, has been translated into 25 languages and printed on to A1-sized posters that will line the walls of the gallery space in London Road, Enfield Town.

As well as the printed poems, there are language notes and a jukebox that plays recordings of all the translations, spoken by readers from the UK and abroad.

A spokeswoman for the Dugdale Centre said: "We have a rich cultural diversity here in Enfield.

"Obviously, there was a big Greek and Turkish migration and at the moment we do a lot of work here with people from Ukraine.

"The poem has been translated into 25 different languages, including Ukrainian, so the exhibition will be of great interest to a lot of people."

Mr Fisher wrote the poem in 2011 and came up with the idea for the latest project after a friend translated the poem into Hebrew.

The translations also include Greek,

Spanish, Bengali, Italian, Polish, Japanese, Latin, Arabic, Hindi, Danish, Turkish, Bulgarian, Welsh, French and Jamaican as well as English.

Mr Fisher said: "I am fascinated by language. How did it begin? Why are there so many languages?"

"This exhibition celebrates the strength and acceptance of London and its history, which is full of so many intense events."

Dr Maria Kamyli, who translated Londinium into Greek said: "The project is really interesting and the content of the poem is very powerful."

Londinium opened on Monday and runs until April 15. Admission is free.

Wait is over for clash of the titans

BATMAN V SUPERMAN: DAWN OF JUSTICE (12A, 151 mins)

GOTHAM City and the world at large struggle to come to terms with the arrival of Metropolis' modern-day saviour, Superman (Henry Cavill).

A committee led by Senator Finch (Holly Hunter) asks uncomfortable questions about the god-like superhero and his ability to crush humanity as well as protect it.

Martha Kent (Diane Lane) tells her son that he doesn't owe the human race anything, but Clark's heart belongs to co-worker Lois Lane (Amy Adams) and he is determined to protect the weak and vulnerable.

Unfortunately, Gotham City's formidable and forceful vigilante Batman (Ben Affleck) fears the actions of Superman and declares war.

While the two figures are locked in battle, inflamed by the scheming of Lex Luthor (Jesse Eisenberg), a new threat – diabolical General Zod (Michael Shannon) – arises.

Just when all hope seems lost, Wonder Woman (Gal Gadot) enters the fray to bring together Batman and Superman in Gotham City's hour of need.

A car that's on your side

By Matt Joy

THE 2 Series is already offered in pretty tasty M235i form, but now there's a full-house M badge version, complete with all the kudos and expectation that comes with it. Seen as a spiritual successor to the limited-run 1 Series M Coupe, the M2 receives the customary level of M Division magic.

Outside, there's a tough-looking bodykit with pumped arches, air intakes that look as if they could inhale small children and steamroller 19-inch wheels. Under the bonnet there's a more powerful version of the 3.0-litre, single-turbo straight six linked to a six-speed manual or seven-speed DCT automatic, with uprated brakes, the electronic M differential and aluminium suspension components similar to those on the bigger M3.

Controlled aggression is the name of the game when it comes to BMW M cars and the compact shape of the 2 Series translates exceptionally well into full performance guise. Dark gloss elements to the grille and wheels mean contrasting colours work well, while greys and blacks give a more subtle look.

While the bigger M cars might be seen as the ultimate expression of the sub-brand, the M2 still has the looks and the cache to give car enthusiasts sleepless nights. It's also the least expensive way into an M car, which will put it on plenty of shopping lists.

The M2 offers the same cabin space as the standard 2 Series, which is perfectly reasonable for a car of this class. Up front, the sports seats offer excellent support, although even in their lowest setting the driving position feels a fraction high. In the rear, legroom is good even for taller adults although headroom is relatively limited. The flipside is a huge boot, with 390 litres on offer.

There's a definite sense of purpose when you're behind the wheel of the M2, even with it in the Comfort setting. The ride is firm, but not harsh, and keeps the body well under control, while the easy torque of the turbo six makes short work of normal driving. Go for the DCT auto gearbox and urban traffic is a breeze.

Get on the right kind of road, however, and the M2's real personality starts to come through. That effortless torque translates into strong acceleration right around the rev range and, with Sport mode engaged, the throttle response is sharper and more of the engaging straight six engine note comes through too. Sixty-two mph can be despatched in 4.5 seconds, but there's no massive turbo kick. Instead, you know there's always acceleration available, but never so much that it feels edgy.

But what really marks out the M2 as a fine driver's car is the handling balance. Unlike the M4, the ratio of grip to power is just about perfect. Several laps of the challenging Laguna Seca racetrack showed the M2 to be confidence-inspiring with excellent traction out of slow corners and good grip balance between front and rear. It will also serve up lurid power slides when required, but only then. The rest of the time the M2 is world fast, capable, controlled and, ultimately, on your side.

M2 prices start at £44,070 and for that you get the higher-specification navigation system, xenon headlights, 19-inch alloy wheels and the higher grade of audio system including Bluetooth, DAB and BMW online services. The biggest option decision you'll need to make is whether to choose the impressive M-DCT dual clutch transmission, but either way the M2 is a genuine M car for less than £50k.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:
1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1989.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must insert clearly that they are selling goods or services in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement space for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board levy and Finance surcharge payable by the advertiser to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement is accepted.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement (s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of any breach of the agreed terms.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall not be liable if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partly by the Publishers belongs to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.
Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.
Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data Controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Personal Assistant Service

The Barnet Group is developing a Personal Assistant Service, PA Choices, which aims to match people who are in receipt of direct payments with personal assistants who are able to support them on a day to day basis.

What is a personal assistant (PA)?

A personal assistant is someone who is employed to provide support to an individual who has a social care need enabling that person to live in their own home, independently, for longer.

A personal assistant will carry out tasks required by the person employing them; from supporting the person to get up, washed and dressed, to carrying out every day domestic tasks, or supporting the person to get out and about.

Are you interested in becoming a PA?

The key skills needed to be a PA are the ability to listen, to be flexible and a willingness to learn and respond.

The job can be very flexible, offering part-time and full time work on different days and at different times. Some people become a personal assistant with flexible hours whilst also working in an entirely different job.

The role is suitable for people from all walks of life, from someone in college who may only want to work evenings or weekends, to someone who is retired and may only want to work a few hours a week.

POCHETTINO ISSUES WARNING TO RIVALS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD COACH Mauricio Pochettino has warned Tottenham Hotspur's Premier League title rivals that they will only get stronger during the rest of the season after his side eased to a 3-0 victory over Bournemouth on Sunday to keep up the pressure on leaders Leicester City.

Spurs' Europa League exit at the hands of Borussia Dortmund on Thursday means that all their focus will now be on their league campaign and they will only have to play one match a week during the run-in.

Tottenham showed no signs of any hangover from their European exit as two early goals from Harry Kane – the first after just 44 seconds – and a Christian Eriksen strike saw them secure a comfortable triumph over Bournemouth to remain clear in second place in the table, five points adrift of Leicester.

And Pochettino believes that the extra time they will have to prepare for their league matches will stand them in good stead in the coming weeks.

"It's true we go into a different period now to recently," he said. "After the international break we'll play one game every week, and we'll have time to prepare for games in a different way, to train, to improve and do a lot of things that were impossible before."

"We are in a moment where we need to see our future in a very good way. It's important to keep working hard and fight in every game."

"The gap Leicester have to us, we need to reduce. It's true that they have a good advantage, but we need to fight and believe."

"This squad is fantastic. The players and the commitment they show every Things can only get better: Mauricio Pochettino believes that Tottenham will get stronger during the run-in week has been great from the beginning of the season."

The head coach was delighted by the performance against Bournemouth and was also full of praise for the exploits of star striker Kane, after his brace took him past the 20-goal tally in the league for a second successive year.

"He is one of the best strikers of a ball and his performance was fantastic," the head coach said. "It was a really good game for Harry. Is he the best striker in the Premier League? For me, yes. Maybe it's difficult to say he is the best, but he's one of the best."

"I think scoring so early helped us. We dominated and deserved that result. The performance was good after that, we had control, created chances and we can feel very proud."

"Every game is hard in the Premier League, but we showed maturity and the perfect balance between both offensive and defensive situations."

Kane hopes youngsters will get their chance

HARRY KANE hopes that his goalscoring exploits of the past two seasons will encourage other Premier League managers to give young English players their chance to shine.

The Tottenham Hotspur striker burst on to the scene last season, scoring 31 goals in all competitions – including 21 in the Premier League – and, after a slow start, he has managed to carry this form into the current campaign.

Kane scored twice in Sunday's win over Bournemouth to again go past the 20-goal mark in the league and move two goals clear of compatriot Jamie Vardy of Leicester City in the race for the golden boot.

And the 22-year-old hopes that it will not be long before a host of other young English players will be given the opportunity to make their mark in the top flight.

"If I can be a role model, or make another manager play a young player coming through rather than buy a player, that's incredible," he said. "Sometimes managers like to buy more experienced players from abroad."

"There are players under their nose who will give everything to the club they've been brought up with, so the more chances players have at a young age, the more you will see young talent coming through, as we have at Tottenham this season."

"Alan Shearer was an idol of mine growing up. The number of goals he scored is incredible and they are the things you dream of. When you are a younger player, you watch people like that scoring goals every week, so it's a dream come true to be doing that now."

Kane added: "Hopefully I keep working hard, keep getting better and score as many as possible. If an Englishman could win the golden boot this season, it would be great for the person who did it and great for the country."

"The country wants players who score and create goals, and we have plenty of those at the moment. It's a goal of mine to score more than I did last season."

"After the first few games there was a lot of talk about whether I'd be able to, but I've stayed focused and it's great to get to 21 in the league. There are seven games to go and hopefully I can finish with more than I did last season."

Borough secure a pair of draws

HARINGEY BOROUGH picked up a pair of draws as they faced play-off chasing Brightlingsea Regent twice in the space of five days in Ryman League Division One North.

The two sides firstly drew 2-2 when they met at Coles Park on Tuesday last week, and then played out a 1-1 draw in the return match at Brightlingsea on Saturday.

It was Borough who struck first in Saturday's match as Dean Fenton gave them the lead midway through the first half, and they maintained their advantage until the interval.

However, the hosts hit back in the second period and Charlie Durling grabbed an equaliser with 20 minutes remaining to ensure that the points were shared.

Tuesday's contest had also seen Borough break the deadlock, with Nana Asamoah putting them ahead on the half-hour mark.

It did not take Brightlingsea long to respond on this occasion though as Keiron Baker got them back on level terms within eight minutes.

Both sides pressed forward in the second half, and it was the visitors who looked as if they had struck the decisive blow when Russell Malton gave them the lead with 13 minutes left.

But Borough were not to be denied, and Jorge Sambu struck three minutes later to ensure the match ended with honours even.

The two draws have left Borough 16th in the table, with their place at this level virtually secured for another season with seven matches remaining.

Haringey Borough host Redbridge on Saturday (3pm), before visiting Aveley on Monday (3pm).
